

PRODUCTION ALERT-

Update on EIDC Relocation: December, 2005

November 4, 2005

We are excited to report that preparations for our December office move are well underway. While our space at Los Angeles Center Studios is being built out, we're putting a comprehensive relocation plan in place to prevent disruptions in service.

Our last day at our Hollywood location will be Friday, December 16th, 2005.

We will reopen for business on Monday, December 19th at our new location at Los Angeles Center Studios. Though we are confident that our move will go smoothly, we encourage you to take these dates into account during your production planning, to safeguard against unforeseen glitches.

Our next Production Alert will include everything you need to know about our new space, including how to reach us by mail, phone, fax, or pager, and where to park should you choose to drop by.

Thank you for filming in Los Angeles.
